STRATEGY 2022-2026

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF TRADITIONAL OWNERS, ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER PEOPLE

Fraser Coast Regional Council acknowledges to the east, the Butchulla (Badtjala) and to the west, the Kabi Kabi (Gubbi Gubbi) People, their connection to Country (land, sea and sky) and recognises the many places of cultural, spiritual, social and economic significance in the community.

We pay our respects to their Elders – past, present and emerging. The Fraser Coast Regional Council also acknowledges other Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who reside in and have connections with the Fraser Coast Region.

LANGUAGE USE WHEN REFERRING TO ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER PEOPLES

Throughout this document, the terms ‘Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander’ and ‘Indigenous’ are used and are at times used interchangeably to reference the First Nations people and communities of Australia. However, we note that some groups and individuals have specific preferences for how they wish their community or language group to be named.

When working with specific communities or language groups, we will seek guidance from those in authority about respectful and appropriate language protocols they prefer are used.

WELCOME TO BUTCHULLA COUNTRY

From Double Island Point in the South, West to Bauple Mountain, North West around Maryborough and North to the Burrum River; East to encompass the waters and the great Sand Island of K'gari, this is known as Butchulla Country.

Butchulla people have lived on, survived on and cared for this land for thousands of years. Today, Butchulla people continue to live, survive and thrive on Country.

The old cultural ways are based on spiritual connection to this land, the sky, the water, birds and animals around us, the seen and the unseen. This spiritual connection is a knowing way of life and survives within us to this day. Connection and maintenance of this land is supported by the Ancestors, Old People and Elders who have guided, and continue to guide, Butchulla community in the Lore of this land.

Supported by the strength and resilience of community, Butchulla people strive to communicate and work in partnership with the Fraser Coast Regional Council to tell the true story of the past and present, and to support ongoing cultural and creative journeys into the future. As the growth in this Fraser Coast region continues, it is important that Butchulla culture and community is honoured and respected, and not destroyed and forgotten.

Through this strategy, we will join in celebrating the recognition and support for Butchulla people and Fraser Coast Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities. We will continue to extend sharing of culture and stories from this traditional country, connecting and joining with others in the artistic field to share and create, grow and diversify, and tell our stories together with respect and understanding.

THE 3 MAIN BUTCHULLA LORE ARE:

- 1 What is best for the land must come first.
- 2 Do not touch or take anything that does not belong to you.
- 3 If you have plenty, you must share.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM AUNTY KAREN HALL

Galangoor djali, nara –hello!

My name is Karen Hall and I am a Butchulla Community member. I was very fortunate to be asked to work on the strategy as a cultural consultant.

Being a part of this community as a Butchulla Elder and educator, and as an artist I hoped to extend the reaches of this strategy to connect to Indigenous peoples in the far corners of Fraser Coast region – to reflect their voices, their perspectives and their goals.

I hoped to be able to keep ‘word for word’ some of our community consultation comments, as it was important to not change these into colonised language, and for our voices to be heard.

I believe with this strategy, we’ve connected into the Indigenous community, and many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and we are grateful to all of those in community who have been part of this consultation. I hope that we have reflected your concerns and ideas. It has also been wonderful to have the strong support from the broader community, with their desire to see more Butchulla and Indigenous culture come to the fore.

I believe this is a strong strategy, and provides firm footsteps to follow as we move forward.

Karen Hall

Butchulla Community Member,
Elder, Educator and Artist

“Creative communities build a sense of place – a place to love and call home, all the while engaging an aspirational, entrepreneurial and innovative spirit.”

Councillor George Seymour

A MESSAGE FROM OUR MAYOR

Arts and culture are essential for our community to thrive. Culture and the arts help us build a sense of place, create links with friends and family in times of loneliness, allow us to express who we are and what we feel, and help us see the magnitude of the world, with all of its joy and challenges. They remind us of where we come from and where we are going. They help us understand and build relationships with others. Arts and culture reveal all of our stories from the past and help us shape our future.

I am pleased to provide to you the Fraser Coast Arts and Culture Strategy 2022-2026. After significant community input and consultation, not only does this document provide direction for the Fraser Coast on development of arts and cultural activities and resources across Council, but it provides a road map for the community, supporting us all in working together and continuing to achieve great outcomes for the whole of the Fraser Coast.

Most admirably, I note and commend the expressed desire of the community to engage in a meaningful way in recognising Butchulla culture and stories.

The Indigenous people of Australia have the oldest living culture in the world; they have much to teach and to share.

Many of you would be well aware that I am an advocate for history and heritage preservation. On the Fraser Coast, we will work together to ensure that our heritage is valued, protected and enlivened.

Creative spaces are smart and productive. They foster curiosity and excitement. And they attract and retain a dynamic and highly skilled workforce. Creative communities build a sense of place – a place to love and call home, all the while engaging an aspirational, entrepreneurial and innovative spirit.

In the last two decades, Local Councils have played a dramatically increasing role in facilitating the arts and cultural activities. I am very proud of all the Fraser Coast has already achieved in the Arts & Culture space and look forward to building our vision of being a leading regional centre for living heritage, lively culture and creative communities.

OUR CONTEXT

The Fraser Coast region features a remarkable heritage and history, events and stories which are powerful and ground-breaking. A combination of natural and cultural assets position it as a region full of potential to inspire a rich arts and cultural life for its communities into the future.

For the Butchulla people and Traditional Custodians the region features landmarks of great spiritual and cultural significance. The great sand island of K'gari is globally renowned as the world's largest sand island, a World Heritage site and the jewel of the Great Sandy Biosphere Reserve. For millenia K'gari and the Sandy Strait was home, and a special place to Indigenous people, long before Captain James Fraser, his wife Eliza and crew members were shipwrecked in 1836. A decade later Thomas Petrie and others came to the area to explore and look for Captain Fraser's body. They didn't find his remains, but they did find the Moonaboola/Mary River. They also were inspired by the timber and grazing potential of the region which led to the relatively early non-Indigenous settlement of this part of Queensland. Indigenous clans in the area resisted early European settlement, and colonisation caused great conflicts and devastation for local Aboriginal people. Indigenous resilience and recovery continues to this day.

Mary is integral to a number of the region's significant stories, for the majestic Mary River, the name of the town, and yes Mary Poppins, the beloved character created by P.L. Travers whose early life in Maryborough inspires arts and cultural engagement in the region today.

THE REGION HAS SEEN MANY FIRSTS AND EXCEPTIONAL LANDMARKS

'The Legends of Moonie Jarl' was first published in 1964 and is the first Australian children's book of Aboriginal stories to be written and illustrated by Aboriginal people: Butchulla siblings Moonie Jarl (Wilf Reeves) and Wandi (Olga Miller).

Bauple is home to the native Bauple Nut, otherwise known as the Boople nut, Queensland nut or Macadamia nut, with the Bauple area also of great significance to Indigenous people. Mt Bauple is seen as being a major marker for Butchulla and Kabi Kabi people.

Maryborough was one of Australia's major ports for immigration in the 19th century, on a par with Sydney with the two ports seeing the most significant influx of immigrants.

The Hervey Bay area was one of the first in Australia to develop a tourism industry based on love for the whales and the community was instrumental in aiding the recovery of their numbers. The first industry guidelines for human interaction with whales emerged from the region and were later adopted far and wide. Love for the humpback whale is fundamental to iconic experiences for locals and visitors to the Fraser Coast region and the focus for one of our major regional festivals.

The region's impressive natural, built and cultural heritage is complemented by a diversity of arts and cultural practice, with many established arts and cultural organisations, professional cultural venues and community spaces. The climate, lifestyle and amenity of the area continue to draw people to the region. We hope that all who live in or visit the region can come to love and appreciate it even more through the sharing of our stories, our arts and our culture.

FRASER COAST PROFILE¹

Fraser Coast region's Local Government Area (LGA) has a total land area of 7,102.9 km² and includes the small regional towns of Glenwood, Bauple and Tiaro in the South, Brooweena to the west, Howard and Burrum Heads to the north and the island of K'gari (Fraser Island) to the East. The region also includes the city of Maryborough and regional centre of Hervey Bay. The region was historically made up of three councils, Woocoo, Maryborough and Hervey Bay and the northern part of Tiaro Shire and these were amalgamated in 2008.

The region is projected to see continued growth over the next thirty years. The demographic profile highlights our diverse population and some challenges with low average income, an older population than the Queensland average, as well as high levels of unemployment, social security and educational need. There have been some interesting findings historically however regarding levels of happiness and wellbeing.

EDUCATION

EMPLOYMENT IN ARTS AND RECREATION*

Reported employment levels in the arts and recreation sector from 2016:

*These figures are unlikely to reflect the true picture of arts and culture work. The situation for Fraser Coast regional artists and cultural workers is similar to those from other regions, with many practitioners working in freelance or casual positions, earning their living through other employment, or engaged in education.

EMPLOYMENT AND INCOME

HAPPINESS AND WELLBEING

In 2006 a national survey identified that Hervey Bay was the 'happiest' centre in Australia.²

Wide Bay (includes Maryborough) ranked 52 of 150 electorates

Hinkler (that includes Hervey Bay) is ranked at 142 of 150 electorates

“The electorates with the highest wellbeing in the country all had above average satisfaction with feeling part of their community. The electoral division of Wide Bay in Queensland recorded the highest wellbeing score in the country yet has one of the lowest average household incomes.”²

In some cases these data have been concorded from other geographical boundaries.)

To gain further insight into the opportunities and challenges for the Fraser Coast region other research from state and national perspectives highlights some important trends and findings.

National research continued by the Australia Council for the Arts confirms the essential role arts and creativity play in Australian communities, showing the arts are a public good infused and embedded in the fabric of our daily lives. The latest Australia Council participation survey (the fourth in the series) revealed a number of key findings⁴. We have aligned some of the data from our Fraser Coast Arts and Culture survey for more local insights.

88% of Fraser Coast respondents believe the arts, culture and creativity impact our understanding of other people and culture

94% of Fraser Coast respondents believe the arts, culture & creativity help you understand perspectives other than your own

TRENDS AND ISSUES

Current challenges of the era are many, but the most significant one impacting on communities around the world is the COVID-19 pandemic. While the arts have played a crucial role in helping people get through COVID, and will play an ongoing role for recovery, mental health, wellbeing⁵, a security net is needed to sustain arts and cultural activity, events and professionals. Councils play a significant role in this support and recovery phase being the most grassroots level of government.

RECOGNITION OF ARTS AND CULTURE FOR WELLBEING, RESILIENCE AND RECOVERY

“Research shows that engagement with arts and cultural activities reduces health risks, particularly for mental health”⁶

RISE IN DOMESTIC TOURISM

It is likely that COVID-19 will continue to impact upon domestic tourism for years to come. There is a willingness to travel to destinations beyond capital cities to seek new and authentic experiences, including growing engagement with First Nations arts and culture.⁸

CREATIVE ECOLOGIES AND THE WHOLE CULTURAL DEVELOPMENT CYCLE

Supporting arts and cultural activity beyond singular or siloed approaches to cultivating a creative ecology, with a connected view of how arts and cultural work is produced, disseminated and consumed.¹⁰

MIGRATION TO THE REGIONS

Australia’s regional areas have had their largest net inflow of people since the Australian Bureau of Statistics started measuring internal migration in 2001⁷.

ELEVATION OF INDIGENOUS ARTS AND CULTURE

“There is a growing appetite for Indigenous Arts and arts audiences are highly motivated to engage with contemporary works.”⁹

EXPERIENCE AND STORYTELLING FOR ACTIVATING HERITAGE AND REGIONAL TOURISM

Heritage tourism is on the rise and ‘tourism across the globe is becoming more about journeys and experiences rather than simply viewing or visiting places and destinations’¹¹. Good ‘storytelling’ is core to memorable experiences, connecting people to places and cultures.

LIBRARIES AS PLACES FOR READING, CONNECTING, LEARNING AND CREATING

The role of libraries continues to evolve beyond traditional book lending and information sharing to recognition as key community hubs, and centres for community learning, creative development and expression.¹²

2032 OLYMPICS FOR QUEENSLAND

The Olympics 2032 will be held in Brisbane and South-East Queensland presenting a range of opportunities for the Fraser Coast region – as a training base and tourism location with distinctive arts and cultural offerings, tours, products and events.

DIGITAL AND HYBRID ART FORMS

Digital technologies have transformed all aspects of our lives including arts and culture. “Digital is changing how the arts and cultural industry operates, how artists collaborate and how art is experienced by audiences.”¹³ The pandemic highlighted the need to develop digital skills and infrastructure, creating ongoing expectations of digital and hybrid experiences across the cultural landscape.¹⁴

RISE OF ALTERNATIVE FORMS OF FUND-RAISING AND INVESTMENT

While levels of funding at federal level for arts and culture have stagnated, there has been a rise in the amount of investment from local government to arts and cultural funding. Alternative models of resourcing such as crowdfunding, arts/business partnerships and micro-loans continue to grow.

WHAT ARE WE TALKING ABOUT?

DEFINING KEY CONCEPTS

We all engage in culture and the arts in some shape or form, and the arts and culture are at the heart of our personal and regional identities. These terms have many meanings however, so we will define what we are focusing on for this strategy.

“Culture” is all about the ways we live our lives – our beliefs, our language, our food, traditions and dress – the rituals and reality of daily life. In local government, cultural programs often includes those related to the arts, but also history and heritage as well as libraries.

“Heritage” in the broadest sense is that which is inherited, so it is about what we value and want to preserve and/or hand on to others. It includes such things as the heritage of Butchulla, Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander, South Sea Islander and migrant peoples, as well as cultural landscapes and streetscapes, material objects and images.

“Creativity” is the human spark to create, adapt, combine and reimagine that is fundamental to the arts, creative practice, innovation and enterprise. For that reason creativity is also used in combination with discussions about arts and culture.

However creativity is not only about the arts. Humans engage in creative acts every day of their lives.

“Story” sharing is another human capacity that is integral to the arts and culture, and the expression of individuals and community. Through story we make sense of experience, and pass on the threads of our knowing, being and imagining with others.

“The Arts” are some of the ways we express and communicate feelings, ideas and beliefs through different creative forms. The focus for regional arts programs is not only on high quality professional arts events and activities but generating opportunities for access and participation across the community.

Arts and cultural activity include but is not limited to visual art, craft and design, public art, music, dance, theatre, media arts, digital and screen-based arts, events, festivals, community cultural development and preservation of knowledge, stories, heritage and collections.

PURPOSE AND STRATEGIC ALIGNMENT

The purpose of this strategy is to provide an aspirational vision for our community and investment in arts and culture. It seeks to achieve the corporate vision of the region to 'build better communities' through providing a framework of strategic priorities, actions and projects specifically focussed on the arts, heritage and culture.

Through the Arts & Culture Strategy we will:

- ✓ Increase our focus on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' arts and culture
- ✓ Encourage creativity and engagement across the Fraser Coast communities
- ✓ Maintain and extend our existing facilities and heritage assets
- ✓ Enhance a strong sense of community, belonging and pride; and
- ✓ Build upon our opportunities, diversity and natural heritage.

Through our Arts & Cultural Strategy we want to recognise and support what is already happening, build capacity and resilience, make innovation easier and attract and expand new creative businesses within the region. This will enhance the experience of living and visiting the region, continuing to strengthen the Fraser Coast region's profile and reputation.

WHAT IS THE ROLE OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT?

Over the past two decades local government has increasingly played a major role in funding and facilitating arts and cultural activity in communities. Perhaps that is not surprising, as it is the level of government most closely associated with the grassroots level of community life. Councils tend to provide the major performing arts venues, galleries and libraries, employ professionals to manage and produce arts and cultural programs, and fund arts and cultural projects, events and activities through its Community Grants Program.

Fraser Coast Regional Council also partners with the Queensland Government through Arts Queensland to deliver the Regional Arts Development Fund (RADF). RADF invests in arts and cultural priorities that are informed by this Arts and Culture Strategy.

“Local governments have increased per capita expenditure by 11.0 per cent while state and territory governments have increased per capita expenditure by 3.9 per cent. The federal government is committing 18.9 per cent less expenditure per capita to culture than it did a decade ago.”¹⁵

The role of local government is to facilitate, support and advocate for arts, cultural, heritage and creative industries, but also empower the creative community, enabling creative people to do what they do best. Council plays a key role in ensuring that arts, heritage and culture are considered, and opportunities maximised across the various plans and programs for the region.

This strategy not only provides a blueprint that will guide action across Fraser Coast Regional Council but also for collaborators across the arts and cultural sector, communities, education and various industry sectors and other levels of government.

Related 1-2 year implementation plans will accompany this strategy document and focus more specifically on council actions and outcomes.

p.12. Song to the Ocean, 2021, Cody Fox

“I believe arts and culture is an integral part of community wellbeing. Building on the arts and cultural aspects that already exists on the Fraser Coast over the next five years can surely provide positive vibes in our community. I would like to see more people participating enthusiastically in the various events.”

“There is a great demand from Fraser Coast residents for all forms of arts, the community seems to value arts a lot; the Council seems to be interested in encouraging that.”

ALIGNMENT WITH OTHER COUNCIL PLANS AND STRATEGIES

The Arts and Culture Strategy aligns with and has the potential to help implement other council strategies and programs. Through other strategies and plans key arts and cultural priorities and actions can also be realised.

OUR PLACES AND SPACES

The Fraser Coast region's arts and cultural infrastructure reflects the historical development of the region with major facilities in the historical centres of the region and a range of community facilities including regional halls.

“More vibrancy in the streets. More live music in coffee shops – more street buskers. Incorporating music concerts into Art Galleries such as Gatakers even if these are paid events.”

“Local, regional and municipal councils are critically important parts of the cultural policy fabric, funding local cultural infrastructure such as performing arts centres, galleries, libraries and museums, as well as festivals and cultural activity at community level.”¹⁶

STRATEGIC THEMES

These themes and strategic priority areas are interrelated with some overlap. Their design allows for a focussed approach for implementing some program areas but also provides for a cooperative approach across the Fraser Coast community and within Council.

01

INDIGENOUS CREATIVITY AND CULTURES ARE RESPECTED AND CELEBRATED

06

CONNECTIONS AND PARTNERSHIPS PROMOTE OUR ARTS AND CULTURE

Our regional artists, creatives and organisations are connected, profiled and promoted to communicate our stories, and heighten our reputation and pride.

INDIGENOUS CREATIVITY AND CULTURES ARE RESPECTED & CELEBRATED

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, cultures, connections to Country (land, sea and sky) and stories are respected, visible and celebrated within the life and profile of the region, with Butchulla and other Indigenous groups supported to achieve their goals.

“Ideally, I would love to see the development of a Butchulla discovery centre. There seems to be the tokenistic acknowledgment of Traditional Custodians, but the creation of a centre that combines agencies and a learning centre to educate all on Traditional Culture would be a drawcard to the area and give local residents (and especially new residents) a greater understanding of our collective culture.”

Dr Fiona Foley

FIONA FOLEY RESIDENCY

Dr Fiona Foley is a Maryborough-born Butchulla (Badtjala) artist, academic and activist whose work is held in many Australian state, national and university collections, including the Fraser Coast Regional Council Collection, with her work also touring internationally. Much of Dr Foley’s work relates to her passion to discover the truth about what happened to Aboriginal nations in Queensland (including on K’Gari and the Wide Bay region) and the effects it had on the people and their descendents. Her art and academic career has been instrumental in her quest to profile Aboriginal people, the history of Australia and explore her individual identity. In 2022 the Fraser Coast Regional Council will be launching the ‘Fiona Foley Artist in Residence Program’ adopting Fiona’s idea for such a residency.

Dr Foley is currently a lecturer at Queensland College of Art, Griffith University. Her publication with UQP titled, Biting the Clouds: A Badtjala perspective on the Aboriginals Protection and Restriction of the Sale of Opium Act, 1897 was awarded the Queensland Premier’s Award for a work of State Significance in 2021, with commendation by Dist. Professor Larissa Behrendt, ‘In Biting the Clouds, Fiona Foley reclaims the colonisation narrative for the Badtjala people and clearly asserts their sovereignty. Essential reading, it cements Foley’s place as one of our leading intellectual and creative forces.’

ARTS & CULTURE SNAPSHOT

Willy Paes, Artist, Maryborough

MARY SPARKS A WORLD OF STORYTELLING

The Fraser Coast region understands the power of story for communicating and connecting people. The connection of Mary Poppins author, P. L. Travers, to the region has been used as the springboard for the annual Mary Poppins Festival and creating an innovative cultural tourism site with The Story Bank. The old bank where Travers was born – the Australian Joint Stock Bank – is now a bank that trades in stories. The building explores the story of Travers’ life, inspirations and writings; as well as valuing the story-heritage of the region and prompting storytelling for all. Many local artists contributed to The Story Bank collection and displays, helping to create a magical place for locals and visitors to enjoy.

ARTS, NATURE AND WELLBEING – SHAWN WONDUNNA FOLEY

Many people now understand the value of connecting with nature and creativity to improve their wellbeing and help deal with the complexity and challenges of contemporary life. These concerns have been central to the practice of Shawn Wondunna Foley for many years. Shawn is a contemporary Butchulla (Badtjala) First Nations Australian writer, visual artist/designer, public speaker, positive thought leader, and cultural advisor local to Hervey Bay.

In his artwork, his artistic inspiration is drawn from many tangible and intangible sources of living on country (land and sea), including K'gari and the Fraser Coast.

The expression of simple, conceptual and abstract images underline the more meaningful and complex relationships that exist as a function of people, place and the living process of change. Another focus area for Shawn's diverse practice has been a series of books concerned with mindful living.

“Embodied within oneself is a deep and profound love for Country (land, sea and sky), spirit and the Arts on the Fraser Coast. It is integral to creating collective wellness and individual wellbeing in this life now.”

Shawn Wondunna-Foley

MAKING HERVEY BAY HOME

Hervey Bay's multicultural community was celebrated through the 'Making Hervey Bay Home' project and exhibition. The 'Cultural Diversity Matters' group coordinated the project, auspiced by the Hervey Bay Neighbourhood Centre and featuring photographs by Sabrina Lauristo. The project was stimulated by a desire to celebrate multiculturalism and the diversity of the Hervey Bay community. The exhibition featured 30 people who reside in the community who were born overseas, and the process began with interviews and photographing each of the participants. Over time the group kept meeting and forged relationships, continuing to meet and enjoy each other's company. The photographs and stories were also combined to be published in a book.

“I loved sharing my stories with other migrants and the inspiration of being part of this community. I love hearing the stories (of others) also, of what they've been through and what are their success stories. It's really amazing.”

Charise Bernil, project participant

This project was made possible through assistance provided by the Regional Arts Development Fund (RADF).

SONG TO THE OCEAN LIGHTING INSTALLATIONS

For the 'Song to the Ocean' performance by acclaimed Australian string ensemble 'Deep Blue' at the 2021 Hervey Bay Whale Festival, dialogues were facilitated with local Butchulla Elders and professional artists from the Fraser Coast. The artists created beautiful ocean inspired light sculptures which were installed around the perimeter of the performance space on Seafront Oval. This helped create a magical environment for the live music experience, and also enabled the sharing of skills, knowledge building and relationships between artists, community members and visiting artists.

“The recent Song to the Ocean event was the most inclusive & spiritual experience. The light workshop for the event provided new skills for the regions’ artists.”

BROLGA LIVE @ POP UP CONCERT SERIES

Starting as a response to COVID in 2020, the Community & Culture Team staged a series of outreach concerts with the 'Brolga Live @' events staged across the region. Beginning with the Brolga's own Riverstage, events have since popped up across the region at locations including Burrum Heads, Howard, Bauple, Glenwood, Toogoom and Poona. Local artists are engaged to perform with professional tech support provided by the Brolga team with their purpose-built mobile tech van. The response from regional communities has been extremely positive and other arts outreach programs are being planned for the future.

“On Friday 29 August, the Brolga Free Concert Series came to Poona with The Gemini Duo and Red Betty entertaining us at our routine Friday night function. All I can say is WOW and I am sure our community would agree. Approximately 170-200 people attended the event making it the largest Friday night function in recent memory. Most were from our community but also many were visitors staying at the Poona Palms Caravan Park. A group of Maryborough residents who heard that Red Betty was playing at Poona also travelled for the event. The residents of Poona appreciate the Brolga's Free Concert initiative and for the continued support that Council provides to our community.”

EMMA THORP - TOURING AND PROFILE RAISING BEYOND THE REGION

Touring work like exhibitions and productions is a form of domestic 'export' which can help build the profile and income potential for individual arts and organisations as well as confirm the region's reputation as an arts and cultural hub. Emma Thorp is a contemporary Fraser Coast artist who creates highly detailed pencil and digital art illustrations. Her solo exhibition, 'Early', is currently on tour after beginning its life at Hervey Bay Regional Gallery with curatorial support from Lewis Gallery. Early explores the experiences of a tumultuous time in Emma's life following the very premature birth of her son, a long period of hospitalisation and the constant appointments, additional illnesses, and demands which followed and culminated in his diagnosis with ADHD and Autism at 5 years of age. Emma has had her exhibition listed on the National Exhibitions Touring Support (NETS) Australia website. 'Early' has so far toured to Beaudesert @ The Centre, Wondai Regional Gallery, and Redland Art Gallery. It will also be traveling to the Gladstone Regional Art Gallery in early 2022.

“Working in regional Queensland has allowed me the space to explore my personal experiences and document them to share. By touring regionally, and sharing my story, I am attempting to promote understanding and support networks for carers who are often geographically and emotionally isolated. My shows have led to community conversations about premature birth and special needs children that have been very cathartic for myself and the broader community. To develop my practice it is important to have a strong local connection for me and my work, but to also be looking beyond for opportunities to expand my artistic practice and extend the ability of my work to access a wider audience.”

URBAN SKETCHING WEEKEND FOR HERITAGE WEEK

The Urban Sketching Weekend helped celebrate Maryborough's remarkable history and distinctive buildings as a feature event staged during Australian Heritage Week. Local artists and community members collaborated with visiting Urban sketchers from Brisbane for three sketchwalks within the City Centre. During the Sketchwalks sketchers moved along a walk and selected their preferred viewpoints for sketching. The Sketchwalks finished with a 'Throw Down' where all the sketches are placed on the ground for everyone to see. A popup exhibition of works created was held in the Bond Store Basement.

"It is time for us all to learn about our shared histories, cultures and achievements, and to explore how we can contribute to achieving reconciliation in Australia."

RECONCILIATION EXHIBITION

In recognition of the twenty-year anniversary for Australia's National Reconciliation Week, Maryborough Wide Bay and Burnett Historical Society Inc. presented an exhibition curated by local Butchulla woman Kym Walker.

The exhibition featured Indigenous artefacts, history and artwork from the region, and also invited visitors to contribute to the growing installation. Attendees were invited to write messages on cut-outs of footprints, contributing their thoughts on how we can 'walk together' towards reconciliation.

IMPLEMENTATION, EVALUATION AND OUTCOMES

We will map and measure our success over the course of the five years of implementing the Fraser Coast Arts & Culture Strategy 2022-2026. Implementation plans will be developed that include specific indicators.

EVALUATION, DATA GATHERING AND REPORTING

Throughout the implementation phase of the strategy a framework for tracking and data gathering will be adopted to enable us to map what we are doing, how well we are going and where we need to focus further attention. Reports of strategy implementation will be created annually for internal and external audiences.

A number of common tools and approaches will be adopted across the community and culture portfolio including:

Activity and event tracking

- Provision – Tracking progress on major projects, arts and cultural assets, infrastructure, expenditure, employment of arts and cultural professionals within and by council, mapping how much and what is invested in activities, collections, buildings, training. May also include in-kind, volunteer and un-paid work contributions.

Participation surveys and interviews

- Participation – Tracking participation and attendance numbers, tickets sold, feedback, number of artists/professionals employed, levels of participation by diverse/ under-represented groups.
- Perception & impact – Using survey questions which explore what participants gained from the experience, and their satisfaction levels. For artists/creatives looking at how their arts/creative practice has been extended, what new work was generated, and other factors such as increased economic activity and other outcomes for participants/groups/communities.
- Pathways – Case studies and snapshots – establishing a process for tracking artists, participants and projects over time. Documentation, short narratives and case studies to be collated and reviewed across the life of the strategy.

Cultural services colour palette

Painted texture overlays - 6 strategic themes

PLACE-BASED DESIGN BY LEELEE CREATIVE

The consultation team for developing this strategy included Leigh West (known as LeeLee) of LeeLee Creative. LeeLee is a Hervey Bay based artist/graphic designer with an extensive background in design and art direction. Returning to the region after living away for several years, LeeLee is part of the creative ecology that this strategy seeks to nurture. The design process was therefore quite personal as well as professional as she sought to create a design palette that was connected to place, reflective of the region, and the creative aspirations of the community of which she is part.

Painted texture - acrylic with palette knife

As the cultural services section of Fraser Coast Regional Council already had a colour palette in place, LeeLee sought to work with the existing design assets while bringing something fresh and dynamic to the process. LeeLee considered different representations of place, before turning to her art tools and practice to play and experiment. A suite of abstract textural pieces were the result, and those traces of place informed the resulting design collateral. That initial creative experimentation has continued to inform the design program for the strategy, and this final document.

The intent for this publication design: honour the content and make it fun to put together! You can't get much more fun than messy, paint-covered hands. The paint textures were inspired by connection to place; the riverways and coastline, colours of the land, textures of our region.
